MONMOUTH

This is our story

It isn't long.

It isn't revolutionary.

It won't make a bestseller.

But we will never forget it.

For us, it is unique, vital, and intimate;

there is no other like it,

anywhere.

It is alive with detail,

lucid with memories.

Our memories.

This is one year re-enacted—

in places, in faces,

in sunlight and snowdrifts,

with humor, with victory,

with frowns and defeat.

But always nostalgically.

An experience ours alone.

NO
PASS

This is the raw material—
the books, the buildings,
the dances and dicussions.
Saga coffee and hourly exams.
Delabar and an over-due spring.
The infinite variety of our experience together.

This is Down to Earth.

This is the seventy-fifth volume of the RAVELINGS. Each year the students of Monmouth College have gathered the collective and orginal stories of their year and have added them to the volumes of RAVELINGS.

We now, humbly, add ours, the RAVELINGS of 1967.

We have tried to accumulate the uniquness of this year as a student of Monmouth College. This is a difficult task; we hope that we have succeeded. Hopefully, when we have our fiftieth class reunion around the year 2017 we can remember our part in the story of Monmouth College — 1967.

It seems only fitting for us to express our sincere thanks to those without whom there would be no 1967 RAVELINGS. First, to Mr. Erwin, who so kindly consented to continue as RAVELINGS advisor; to Don Morton and Ron Mayworm, our much belabored photographers; to David Allen, a very talented Copy Editor; and finally, to a very dedicated staff, thank you all.

And after all this we are still friends.

Sincerely,
The Editors
